Human rights for detained refugees,
asylum seekers and migrants

Hundreds of thousands of men, women and children are held in detention centres and closed camps around the world. Conditions in most countries fall below international standards and deny basic human rights.

There are alternatives.

There are alternatives to detention that protect the rights, dignity and wellbeing of refugees, asylum seekers and migrants, while meeting government and community expectations.

The International Detention Coalition (IDC) brings together civil society organizations and individuals from more than 50 countries across the globe working together to improve the human rights of detained refugees, asylum seekers and migrants. The Coalition undertakes research, training, advocacy and campaign initiatives, with a focus on children in detention, conditions of places of detention and promoting the use of alternatives to detention.
